Mereside Medical strive to offer the best possible treatment and care. However, if you have a complaint or concern about the service you have received from any member of the staff working for Mereside Medical, please let us know. We operate a practice complaints procedure as part of an NHS system for dealing with complaints. Our complaints system meets national criteria as laid down by the NHS.

How to complain

We hope that most problems can be sorted out easily and quickly, often at the time they arise and directly with the person concerned.

However, if your problem cannot be resolved in this way and you wish to make a formal complaint, we would like you to let us know as soon as possible - ideally within a matter of days or at most a few weeks - because this will enable us to establish what happened more easily. If it is not possible to do this, please let us have details of your complaint within 12 months of the incident that is the cause of the problem, or within 12 months of discovering that you have a problem.

We adhere to the strict rules of patient medical confidentiality. If you are complaining on behalf of someone else, we have to be assured that you have their permission to do so and would ask that the patient consent form is signed by the patient concerned and returned to us, unless there are exceptional circumstances i.e. illness, incapacity, etc.

What you should do

Please write in with details of your complaint or concern and include as much detail as possible – dates, times, staff involved, details of telephone calls, etc.

Complaints should be addressed to the Practice Operations Manager at the relevant site either via e-mail or by post:

Cathedral Medical Centre, POW Hospital, Lynn Road, Ely, Cambridgeshire, CB6 1DN
cpicb.cathedralmedicalcentre@nhs.net

Haddenham Surgery, The Green, Haddenham, Ely, Cambridgeshire, CB6 3TA
cpicb.haddenham@nhs.net

Staploe Medical Centre
Brewhouse Lane, Soham, Ely, Cambridgeshire, CB7 5JD
cpicb.staploe@nhs.net

Alternatively, you can telephone the Practice to arrange a telephone call with the Practice Operations Manager in order to discuss your concerns. The Practice Operations Manager will explain the complaints procedure to you and will make sure your concerns are dealt with promptly.

Our Commitment to You

We shall acknowledge your complaint within three working days and aim to have looked into your complaint within the time scale agreed with you. The time taken to investigate your complaint will depend on its complexity and the number of people involved. We shall then be in a position to offer you an explanation, or a meeting if that is more appropriate.

When we look into your complaint, we aim to:

- Find out what happened and what should have happened.
- Make it possible for you to discuss the problem with those concerned if this is your wish.
- Ensure the complaint is resolved to your satisfaction.
- Make sure you receive an apology, where this is appropriate.
- Identify what needs to be done to ensure the problem does not arise again.

Our Principles are

- To get it right
- To be patient focussed
- To be open and accountable
- To act fairly and proportionately
- To put things right
- To seek continuous improvement

Taking matters further

We hope that if you have a problem you will contact us directly. We believe this will give us the best chance of putting right whatever has gone wrong and an opportunity to improve our practice.

If you feel it would be helpful to speak to someone independent of the Practice for support and advice in pursuing your complaint you may wish to contact one of the following organisations:-

Our Commitment to Acceptable Behaviour

We recognise that patients who make complaints may have reason to feel aggrieved, upset or distressed. However, in a small number of cases, a patient's behaviour while engaging with us may become unacceptable because it involves abuse of our staff or our service. When this happens, we will take action to protect our staff and maintain our ability to do our work and provide a service to others.

Examples of what we consider to be unacceptable behaviour include:

Aggressive, abusive or offensive behaviour

Physical behaviour, language, images (whether face-to-face, via telephone, written e-mails, letters or online) that may cause employees to feel intimidated, uncomfortable, degraded, threatened or abused is not acceptable. This includes abuse about any protected characteristic, as defined by the Equality Act 2010 (age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex and sexual orientation).

Unacceptable demands

We may consider demands about the nature or scale of our service to be unacceptable. For example:

- Requesting responses in unreasonable timescales;
- Insisting on speaking with senior colleagues or escalating to senior colleagues when not getting the desired answer;
- Making repeated approaches about the same issue without raising new information;
- Vexatious requests for information;
- Repeatedly changing the substance of a complaint; and
- Raising unrelated concerns or refusing to accept a decision where explanations for the decision have been given.

Unacceptable levels of contact

We may consider communication unacceptable in nature or because of the scale of service expected. For example:

- Continually contacting us in the process of looking at the issue or complaint;
- Numerous calls or e-mails in one day or excessive contact over a short period of time;
- Repeatedly sharing information that has already been shared; and
- Continually reframing the issue or complaint in such a way that it makes it difficult for us to do our job effectively

Refusal to co-operate

It is unacceptable if a person refuses to engage with the complaints process by:

- Refusing to provide information and/or evidence.
- Not providing a summary of their concerns.
- Not providing comments or responses to reasonable deadlines.
- Not agreeing to a defined complaint scope within a reasonable timescale.

Action we might take

Wherever possible we try to work with individuals to rectify the situation and continue communication in a respectful and dignified way for all involved.

Where we are not able to do this, the types of action we would take, include but are not limited to:

mereside medical

- Provide a verbal warning at the time of incident so that the individual has an opportunity to understand the impact of their behaviour and rectify the situation.
- Provide a written warning following the incident so the individual is aware of the impact of their behaviour and can modify it for future interactions.
- Restrict contact to certain communication methods, while taking account of any reasonable adjustments in place.
- Restrict contact to named individuals.
- In very rare cases we would consider placing a behaviour contract on an individual.

In very exceptional cases we reserve the right to refuse to accept a complaint or future complaints from an individual

We do take all complaints very seriously, and will endeavour to investigate and resolve all complaints where possible. We anticipate the above unacceptable behaviour from patients to be very rare and will assess each case carefully before classing it as unacceptable.
